

Turn Off The Moon

- A What's the matter with you?
- B Nothing. Nothing, nothing nothing!
- A Looks like something. What's bothering you?
- B The stupid moon.
- A The moon? How could the moon be bothering you?
- B Because it's always shining! Last three nights it's so big and bright, it shines through my window all night long!
- A Well, it's been a full moon the last couple of nights.
- B You're telling me! Turn that thing off for a couple of hours! I can't get any sleep!
- A You can't turn off the moon! It's so beautiful. That's why they write songs about the moon and the moonlight.
- B Well, I'm not singing any of them. I'm sick and tired of the moon. I don't even think it's real.
- A Of course it's real! The moon is part of our solar system.
- B I don't care. Who needs it?
- A Everybody needs it! It's good for the tides and the oceans and all kinds of other stuff.
- B Well, it isn't any good for me. I'm un-friending the moon.

How Are You?

- A How are you doing?
- B Fantastic, but I'm gonna get better!
- A Really? That good?
- B Yeah! Great! Never better!
- A Wow! What's so good?
- B Everything! The sun is shining. The birds are singing. The cupcakes are baking.
- A Are you just trying to be silly?
- B Not silly. Happy. I appreciate everything.
- A What do you appreciate?
- B I'm alive. I have a great family. Great friends. I appreciate you for being my friend.
- A Don't you worry about school, and growing up, and all that scary stuff?
- B Nope. Not at all.
- A How about the horrible weather?
- B What's so horrible about it?
- A It's raining again.
- B That's good. Rain makes the flowers grow.
